The Last Thing He Did

When I was growing up at the Lincoln congregation in Huntsville, Alabama, one of the elders was a man named Roy Jacks. He was a good Christian man who served the Lord throughout his lifetime. He and Lucille were married for 77 years and they brought up their children in the Lord.

Brother Jacks died at the age of 99 after suffering two heart attacks. Living to the age of 99 and being married for 77 years are both remarkable feats in life, but I want to tell you something that was noteworthy about his death.

When it became obvious that his health was deteriorating, his wife and children were called to his bedside. While they were all together, they had prayer. The amazing thing is that Brother Jacks led the prayer himself! He knew the power of prayer (1 John 5:14-15; James 5:13-16; Matthew 7:7-8), and prayed often. Shortly after that prayer, he went into a comatose state and six hours later he passed from this life. The last thing he did was lead his family in prayer!

What will be the last thing we do with our families? It will likely be what we have done with them all along. 'The family that prays together, stays together.' Think about it.

-adapted from Ricky Phillips, Florence, Alabama
