Verbally Inspired

The Bible claims that it is verbally inspired (2 Timothy 3:16). The Greek word translated "inspired" is theopneustos from (Theos, "God," cc, "to breathe"). This means that the very words of the Bible narrative are from God. In 2 Samuel 23:2, David declared: "The Spirit of Jehovah spake by me, And his word was upon my tongue."

Here David affirms: (a) He has been used as a instrument of the Spirit; (b) The ultimate source of the message was God; (c) The divine message was presented by words. Though David's tongue was used, in reality, the word was God's. In Acts 1:16, Peter states that the Holy Spirit spoke through the mouth of David concerning Judas' betrayal of Jesus (Psalm 41:9)

We are told in 2 Peter 1:21 that various men, chosen by God to be the human instruments to reveal His will through the written word, wrote as they were guided by the Holy Spirit. They did not write what they "thought" God said. These men did not pen what they "wished" God said; neither did they write what they "thought" God "ought" to have said. They wrote exactly what God wanted them to write.

Because the Bible is verbally inspired of God, it is the powerful medium (Romans 1:16; Hebrews 4:12) through which mankind is to be convicted of their sins (Acts 2:37) and converted to Christ and His church (Acts 2:41,47). Let us as faithful brethren continue to preach and teach God's inspired and powerful word to the spiritually lost (2 Timothy 4:2; Matthew 28:19-20; Mark 16:15-16).

Christian Apologetics

Time, Space, and Matter

There is an immeasurably and unimaginably huge universe out there (even though the most important part of it appears to be here). The physical universe is "temporal"—its physical characteristics are defined qualitatively and quantitatively in and by time, space, and mass/energy (usually abbreviated as just "matter").

Any effort to determine the cause of the universe is purely hypothetical. No human was there to observe the processes, so any attempt to understand events of pre-history (especially original events) must, therefore, be based on "belief systems," or presuppositions. While the theories and ideas may be many, the presuppositions can only be of two sorts: 1) there is an infinite series of causes, going back into infinite time, with no ultimate Cause; or 2) there exists an uncaused First Cause that was "outside" or transcendent to the universe.

Many scientists today conduct their research based on their presupposition or belief that nothing exists beyond the natural world—that which can be seen around us—and thus they do not accept that any ultimate Cause exists.

Scientists at ICR hold to the presupposition that the "uncaused First Cause" is the Creator who exists outside of the physical creation He made. Time is not eternal, but created. To ask what happened in time before time was created is to create a false paradox without meaning. There was no "before" prior to the creation of the triune universe of time, space, and mass/energy.

Yet even more amazing (and the universe is amazing) is the historic fact that the Creator-God, after purposefully creating the time-space-matter universe, chose to enter it in the God-human person of Jesus Christ—for the sole purpose of providing a means by which humanity could have a personal relationship with the Creator.

"And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth" (John 1:14).
